The Good Old Farm

If you own a farm hold it in your possession as you live.

If you have a mortgage on it do not yield to temporary discouragements and sell out, pay off the mortgage and be free. This you can do; any tract of productive agricultural land will pay for it more than once in a decade of good times. A farm that has grown old in one family becomes the realm of sacred, happy memories; it nourishes the spirit of the past, inspires with wholesome purpose and makes a subtle plea for kindly, loving care.

Think of the farm as a living thing, as sensitive abuse, as appreciative of zealous management, as the benefactor of your ancestors, and your posterity.

There is good in everything, but the farm is the habitat of earth's most coveted bounties, for from it comes all that is essential to mankind.

Sentimental love for the old farm, whereon your boyhood days were spent, is praise worthy; cherish it, keep it ever alive. That which we love is capable of giving us the greatest pleasure and satisfaction.

Blessed is that man who at the end of his earthly journey in calm happy resignation can say:

"On this old farm I was born; on this kind, generous old homestead I shall close my eyes in eternal sleep."

Although this is the greedy age of cold commerce, there lurks within every healthy man a leavening force which for want of a better name we call sentiment. He who is without sentiment is deficient in all other noble attributes. Life is empty, devoid of a world-power, if it be without sentiment. A man with sentiment will love the old farm and hold fast to it, for it is good.—Farm and Stock, St. Joseph, Mo.

A Young Mother at 70.

"My mother has suddenly been made young at 70. Twenty years of intense suffering from dyspepsia had entirely disabled her, until six months ago, when she began taking Electric Bitters, which have completely cured her and restored the strength and activity she had in the prime of life," writes Mrs. W. L. Gilpatrick, of Danforth, Me. Greatest restorative medicine on the globe. Sets Stomach, Liver and Kidneys right, purifies the blood, and cures Malaria, Biliousness and Weaknesses. Wonderful Nerve Tonic. Price 50c. Guaranteed by Jno. H. McMaster & Co., druggists.

A Nonpossibility.

He was a large, rag-bow, red-faced lawyer from Maine, lately settled in a Southern state, and, of course, ambitious of making a reputation in his profession, says the Green Bay. His mouth was so large that it was unnecessary for him in uttering a word to more than half open his mouth, the corners thereof being the parts called into requisition.

He had on the inquisitorial block a backwoodsman as a witness. The witness had replied to a question from the interrogating lawyer that "it was a nonpossibility."

Quoth the lawyer, "A 'nonpossibility.' Now, will you tell this court and this jury here what you mean by a nonpossibility? Give us an example."

Witness: "Well, I think it 'd be a nonpossibility to make your wouff enny bigger widout setting your ears furdur back."

Of course the dignity of the court was suspended.

If you have lost your boyhood spirits courage and confidence of youth, offer you new life, fresh courage and freedom from ill health in Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Jno. H. McMaster & Co.

A slight shower was falling, and Mr. Ferguson discovered, when on the point of starting for church, that there wasn't an umbrella in the house fit for use. "You can borrow one from the Thompsons next door," suggested Mrs. Ferguson. "They never go to church."

"No," he answered, with iron firmness. "It is wrong to borrow umbrellas on Sunday. I should have bought one yesterday. I shall punish myself for my carelessness by not going to church this morning."

Thereupon he proceeded to punish himself still further by reclining in an easy chair and reading the morning papers.—Chicago Tribune.

This is the season of decay and weakened vitality. Nature is being worn of its beauty and bloom. If you would retain yours, fortify your system with Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Jno. H. McMaster & Co.

BIRTH OF A HYMN.

Story of the Origin of "In the Sweet By and By."

A song of national circulation, "In the Sweet By and By," written by S. Elmore Bennett of Elkhorn, Wis., had its birth in a country store. Mr. Bennett told the story, which is given in "Wisconsin in Three Centuries," as follows:

It was about time for closing business in the evening when J. P. Webster, whose melodies have made Wisconsin famous, came into the store, feeling somewhat depressed.

I said to Webster, "What is the matter now?"

He replied, "It is no matter; it will be all right by and by."

The idea of the hymn came to me like a flash of sunshine, and I replied: "The sweet by and by. Why would not that make a good hymn?"

"Maybe it would," he said indifferently.

I then turned to my desk and penned the hymn as fast as I could write. I handed it to Mr. Webster. As he read it his eyes kindled and his whole demeanor changed. Stepping to the desk, he began writing the notes instantly.

In a few moments he requested Mr. Bright to hand him his violin, and he played with little hesitation the beautiful melody from the notes. A few moments later he had jotted down the notes for the different parts and the chorus.

I do not think it was more than thirty minutes from the time I took my pencil to write the words before the hymn and the notes had all been completed and four of us were singing it exactly as it appeared in the Signet Ring a few days later and as it has been sung the world over ever since.

A NAVAL REBUKE.

Two Admirals, a Captain and a Fool in Manila Bay.

When Dewey's fleet was at Manila the late Admiral Crichton was then a captain. On one occasion Admiral Diederichs, the German, sent out the order of an unreviewed errand and without the customary notification to the commander of the blockading fleet, Admiral Dewey had suffered, he thought, sufficiently from that sort of thing, and so the admiral sent a vessel across the Irene's bows and notified her captain that she would not be permitted to depart without a statement as to her destination. It was not Admiral Diederichs' mission to quarrel with both the American and the English fleets on this critical occasion, so he sought to find out Captain Crichton's purpose in case of a collision. Going on board Crichton's ship, he angrily exclaimed, "Did you see what Dewey did to my ship?"

"Yes," replied Crichton.

"What would you have done if it had been an English ship?"

"Well," said Crichton, conveniently assuming that the Irene's captain had sailed without orders from Diederichs, "I'd have put my captain in arrest, and then I'd have gone on board the Olympia and apologized to Admiral Dewey for having sent a fool in command of one of my ships."—Harper's Weekly.

A Poet's Homely Face.

The poet Rogers was afflicted with a notably unpleasant, cadaverous countenance, which, with all his intellectual power, was a mortification to him. To hide his annoyance, he joked about his ugliness incessantly and deceived his friends into supposing him indifferent to it. He once turned to Sydney Smith, who, with Byron and Moore, was dining with him, and said:

"Chantry wants to perpetuate this miserable face of mine. What pose would you suggest that I should take?"

"If you really wish to spare the world as much as possible," said the wit, "I would, if I were you, be taken at my prayers, my face buried in my hands."

Rogers laughed with the other persons present, but he shot a malignant glance at the jester and, it is said, never fully forgave him for the bonnet.

Thankfulness.

I am no friend to the people who receive the bounties of Providence without visible gratitude. When the sixpence falls into your hat you may laugh. When the messenger of an unexpected blessing takes you by the hand and lifts you up and bids you walk you may leap and run and sing for joy, even as the lame man whom St. Peter healed skipped piously and rejoiced aloud as he passed through the beautiful gate of the temple. There is no virtue in a gloom indifference. Joy is as much a duty as beneficence. Thankfulness is the other side of mercy.—Henry Van Dyke.

Facial Horticulture.

"A new milkman left our milk today," announced Dorothy.

"Did he have whiskers?" asked her mother, thinking perhaps it was the proprietor.

"No," said the four-year-old; "he didn't have whiskers, but he had the roots."—Harper's Weekly.

Why She Couldn't.

"No, I didn't have a very good time," she said. "I wanted to talk, and there wasn't a man there."

"But there were plenty of other girls."

"Oh, of course, but that was no satisfaction, for they all wanted to talk too."

Unfair.

Another unfair thing in life—the bride, with a wealth of hair, wears a veil, but the groom, who has a bald spot and really needs a veil to cover it, is denied the privilege.—Aitchison Globe.

The noblest motive is the public good.—Virgil.

Why Delay Buying Real Estate?

If blind people ask questions they will find that the population of the world is growing and that land is continually advancing, partly owing to the general prosperity of the country. The time to buy a home or make an investment is when you are ready or when you see something to please you. The sooner you make selections and investments the earlier you will commence to improve and accumulate. Remember the adage about delays. See how much some have lost and how they have been inconvenienced by moving, time after time.

All prices quoted subject to fluctuations.
